

A playhouse with a play panel and an outside table

Bibi is one of the four playhouses in the Basic series. This model has a triangular design with an extra side that has a small table. Additionally the playhouse has a window and a play panel with a counter. Do you want a more traditional and square design? Then have a look at our LB089 Beth playhouse.

The playhouses are popular among the children for games such as role play, and Bibi's construction is perfect for including more children in the game or giving space for multiple games. The children can spread out over the indoor and outdoor area, just like they can all easily participate in the same game. Playing with peers leads to a sense of community, when the children together have to establish the rules and roles for the games. At the same time, they begin to understand that their wishes and needs are not always the same as their friends, which means that they have to practice their abilities to solve conflicts and work together.

Like the rest of the play systems in the Basic series, the playhouses are made in a timeless design, which is minimalistic and has a sense of lightness. Especially the playhouses have a new and exciting look that pushes the limits of how a house is supposed to look like. Likewise the neutral colours and the simple construction give room for the children's own imagination, allowing them to largely create their own world.
