Multiple levels and a fun slide

Baldur is one of the multi-level play towers of the series. This model has a slide that is accessed from stairs and to different levels of 90 cm and 140 cm, respectively, which makes the play tower more suited for younger children. Do you want a more challenging model for older children? Then have a look at our LB130 Bertil play system.

The stairs ensure that even the youngest children can enjoy a trip down the slide from the Baldur play tower. Here they can easily move up the steps and grab hold of the handles on the sides. When they reach the first level of the tower, they meet a window that inspires the children to creative and fun games as well as social interaction.

At the top of the tower, a trip down the slide can be enjoyed at full speed. Here the repeating trips down the slide do not only bring smiles and excitement, they also help the children to improve their gross motor skills and balance. On top of that, the children also get better at judging distance and speed, as well as get a feel for gravity.

Quality materials provide better experiences

A trip down one of LEDONs slides has to be enjoyable in all kinds of weather. That is why they are produced in the durable material polyethylene which does not become hot in the sun, does not create static electricity and thus does not give shocks like metal slides.

In the same way, our windows are also designed to withstand all kinds of weather. They are manufactured in transparent polycarbonate which, thanks to its enormous impact strength, cannot be broken and is thus safe from vandalism. Additionally, the material is UV-protected and will not be discoloured despite many hours in the sun.
