Climbing fun and trips down the slide

Brody is one of our four two-tower play systems that are filled with activities such as a climbing net, a slide and stepping stones. This model has a floor height of 90 cm and 140 cm, respectively, which combined with the slide and climbing net makes it accessible to a wide age group of children. Do you want a model with extra height and sliding poles which is more challenging and suitable for older children? Then have a look at our LB220 Baxter play system.

The Brody play system has two towers that are connected by a climbing net. Besides the climbing net, the floors of the towers can be accessed in different ways. One tower has a climbing wall, while the other has stepping stones. When the floor of the highest tower is reached, you can enjoy the view over the playground before sliding down the always fun slide.

The slide and the repeating trips down do not only bring smiles and excitement, they also help the children to improve their gross motor skills and balance. On top of that, the children also get better at judging distance and speed, as well as get a feel for gravity.

Our guarantee for a fun playground

One of our many ways to create a playground that both supports children's natural development and has a high entertainment value is to bring in the experts themselves: the children. Children have a far-reaching imagination and a creativeness that knows no bounds when faced with thinking outside the box. This helps us to push our designs in directions which we could not even think of ourselves.

The Basic series is no exception. Once again, our little experts have been taking part in order to ensure that we hit the mark, when we try to make their wishes and dreams of a fun playground come true.
